In today's rapidly evolving risk landscape, the ability to anticipate, respond to, and recover from disruption is essential. That's why Disaster Forum 2025, held from October 28 to 30 at the stunning Pomeroy Kananaskis Mountain Lodge in Alberta, is more than just a conference.

It is a strategic opportunity for professionals in Emergency Management, Business Continuity, Crisis Management, Disaster Recovery, and Risk Management to sharpen their skills, expand their networks, and bring back actionable insights that directly benefit their organizations.

Over two and a half days, attendees will engage in keynote presentations, breakout sessions, panel discussions, and hands-on workshops designed to tackle real-world challenges with practical, solutions-based approaches. The agenda is carefully curated to foster learning and collaboration, with sessions that reflect the latest thinking in resilience, crisis leadership, and continuity planning.

What truly sets Disaster Forum apart is its community-building focus. The event is designed to connect practitioners across industries and sectors, creating a space where ideas are exchanged freely and relationships and partnerships are formed organically. Whether you're a seasoned leader or an emerging professional, the relationships built here can become long-term assets in your resilience toolkit.

From a business-case perspective,
